

RELENTLESS BASKETBALL

Welcome players and families to Relentless Basketball. The vision of Relentless Basketball is to create an atmosphere of enjoyment, where players are challenged both mentally and physically while developing skills that translate to the game of basketball.

Player Focus:

We believe that young athletes should have 2-3 hrs of personal skill development for every 1 hour of game time.

Teams Focus:

We never want players to sit on the bench and never play in our games, leagues or tournaments, with this in mind, we structure our teams to have an ideal number of 10 players. In a rare case, we will have more or less than this number but our goal is always to keep 10 players per team.

We ask the players to be all in. What does that mean? Once they have signed up to play for Relentless, it becomes a three season obligation. We do understand that in rare occasions, a player may have to miss. The obligation will be from August until the last weekend of our spring league (which is usually in mid too late May). Are you able to play both with Relentless Basketball and their middle school team? Yes, 6th - 8th graders are able to do that. High School is different, they are not allowed to (it is an AIA violation). We will do our best to make sure that practice times for us, and those on school teams don't conflict, same as our Saturday games.

Weekly Schedule: Relentless Basketball will have skill workouts two times a week through our camp, which will be followed by their team practice. We will be in the gym on Monday and Wednesday nights.

Games/Tournaments:

We will be playing in the YDA league each season, and we will let you know the start date and end date for each. Games are only on Saturdays and mostly will be at a school in our area. There are rare times, where we may have to travel in the valley for game. Tournaments will be on Saturdays. There are no door fees for parents or families for the games.
